

Can one achieve self-liberation through institutional engagement?

Here at LSB, we are developing a pseudo-sociological survey to better understand the ways in which humans adapt, conform, and/or break free from our various cultural institutions. In order to add to our body of knowledge, we are calling for self-selected participants to take part in our filmed interview series. Participants will be able to select the intensity of their interview questions, and will have the option to disguise themselves in order to take part in this experiment anonymously.

This event will be kicked off with a live performance "Face On" by LA-based artist Thinkh Nguyen at 2pm:

"Set up as a 'makeup tutorial' in front of a camera phone on a tripod, I put on successive layers of makeup, turning my skin into "white" without a mirror. Afterwards viewers are encouraged to carry out the demonstrated challenge of doing makeup without mirrors and posted on their social media handle #nomirrormakeupchallenge."

The performance will be followed by a casual Q+A with Thinkh Nguyen and other Lady Scumbag contributors Ali Kheradyar, Vanessa Conte, and Vicki Syal.

Come be in conversation with our LSB contributors and community.

Be a part of history and help us engage the present to better shape the future!

Organized by Kim Ye and The LSB Institute.
